

State Officers Speak To County Clerks

AXEL PETERSON, ELECTED PRESIDENT
Crystal Falls Selected Next Convention City

Members in attendance at the 28th annual convention of the Michigan Association of Clerks, held in Grayling this week, began arriving Monday night, and by Tuesday afternoon there were 38 clerks and their wives registered, also there were many supervisors in attendance.

Headquarters for the convention was at Shoppenagons Inn, and business sessions at the Officers Club house at the Hanson State Military reservation.

The visitors joined with the local Kiwanis club in an informal luncheon Tuesday noon. Except for a gesture for welcome extended by President Emil Giegling of the Kiwanis Club, and a few words in response by President Lynn D. Allen, county clerk of Oakland county, there were no speeches. A good luncheon and a lot of joking, led by Frank Sales, a former county clerk, gave the clerks' program a fine start, and also an opportunity to meet some of our local citizens.

The Tuesday afternoon meeting was held at the Officers' club, with President Allen presiding. The clerks, visiting supervisors and others in attendance were extended cordial greetings by Mayor Chris Olsen of Grayling. Probate Judge Charles E. Monroe of Grayling gave a brief address, telling of some of the interesting things to see around Grayling, and some of our recreational activities.

The remainder of the afternoon was taken up with round-table discussions.

Wednesday's session was devoted to talks and routine business. Former Mayor T. W. Hanson of Grayling told of the early day lumberjacks. Attorney Merle Schell talked about the relationship between the people and their county clerk and advocated that the public become better informed as to the duties of their clerks.

In the afternoon Andrew Jordan of Lansing gave an address pertaining to naturalization laws.

Louis Webber, deputy secretary of state, talked on the subject "Michigan Commission to Study Election Laws." W. B. McPherson, state tax commissioner of Lansing discussed state tax matters.

Wednesday evening there was a banquet at Michelson Memorial church, served by the Ladies Aid. Rev. Flory, pastor of the church, gave the invocation. Dr. C. R. Keyport of Grayling was the toastmaster.

Speakers at the banquet were Axel Peterson, county clerk of Crawford county, who presented the delegates and visitors.

Hon. Edward A. Britzke, circuit judge, gave a resume of the manner in which the members of the supreme court are chosen and other interesting matters concerning that body.

Secretary of State Orville E. Atwood, pinch hitting for State Treasurer Fry who was unable to be present, talked of state affairs. The program was deeply interesting and enlightening and no doubt the delegates got a lot of real good "and" information from the talks.

During the evening entertainment was provided by Henry Ford's Mountaineers, which added a lot of pleasure to the program.

Following are the newly elected officers:

Axel M. Peterson, Crawford county, president.

Oliver W. Putz, Iron county, 1st vice pres.

Allan C. Hyde, Barry county, 2nd vice pres.

Emmett M. Gibb, Washtenaw county, secretary.

John A. Hagman, Livingston county, treasurer.

The state convention next year will be held at Crystal Falls, at Iron county.

The meeting closed this forenoon.

Dr. Hathaway, Optometrist of Pontiac, Michigan, will be at his Grayling office July 14, 15 and 16 on his regular monthly visit for Optometric work 7-2-2

RADIO INTERFERENCE

And Some Methods of Reducing It.

Radio interference may be roughly divided into two classes: atmospheric and man-made. Of course there is little we can do about atmospheric or static interference, as, contrary to general opinion, electro magnetic waves have been generated since the beginning of time by the most powerful transmitter of them all, lightning, which is very similar to the man-made spark transmitter.

However the broadcasting stations are constantly increasing their power and efficiency which means that the ratio of signal to static strength is being increased so that it is possible to reduce the volume of the ratio to a point where the noise is not so agreeable and still receive the music with satisfactory volume. Millions of gadgets guaranteed to reduce or eliminate static have been sold to the public but all of them are entirely worthless.

Man-made interference comes from many places. The electric lighter on the cigar store counter, the sparking brushes of a motor, with worn or dirty commutators, vibration of the thermostat contact of an electric heat pad, the vibrator contacts in the old style barber clippers and many other electrical appliances are miniature spark transmitters generating identically the same kind of electro magnetic waves as your favorite broadcasting station.

Most of these lacking an aerial and ground connection, feed these impulses into the electric light line which may carry them many miles unless filters consisting of chokes and condensers are provided to suppress them. Most public service companies now value the good will of the public enough to cooperate by making every effort to prevent their lines from carrying interference to their radio listeners, and such interference is being gradually reduced, depending to a great extent on how much complaint their customers make.

However the proper place to reduce interference is at the point where it is made. New appliances, motors, X-ray machines, violet ray machines, clippers and other apparatus now are generally arranged that no interference is generated, but on the old types now in use some kind of suppressor must be used. The standard arrangement is two one microfarad paper condensers connected in series across the line as close as possible to the apparatus, or across the brushes of a motor, with the center point between the two condensers grounded to a water pipe or other "GOOD" ground. Frames of all motors and machinery should be grounded. In most cases this arrangement will greatly reduce or even entirely eliminate the noise, but in some other cases it seems to have little or no effect. In such cases a suitable filter system of condensers and chokes must be designed to fit the particular case. Noises can always be suppressed but sometimes the expense is prohibitive.

Public service companies have trouble finders, small sensitive portable radios which will pick up noises only when turned edge ways to the source, with which they can usually locate any serious noise very quickly, so that an effort may be made to suppress it.

Locating and suppressing all of the noises is a long and tedious job, but in the meantime you can go over your own appliances and make sure none of them are offending and induce your neighbor to do the same. If every radio listener will do his part the noises will be greatly reduced with little effort.

PLANNED ECONOMY

Grayling, Mich., July 9.—(By AP Wire.)—The Grayling Public Service Commission today announced that it had ordered the Grayling Public Utility Company to reduce its rates for electric power to industrial users by 10 percent.

The commission said that the company had been operating at a profit of 10 percent, which was "unreasonable" in view of the fact that the company had been operating at a loss for several years.

The commission said that it had received many complaints from industrial users that the rates were too high, and that it had been unable to obtain a satisfactory settlement with the company.

The commission said that it had therefore ordered the company to reduce its rates by 10 percent, effective July 1, 1936.
